

Today's Scripture Reading

Job 1²⁰⁻²², 13¹⁵, 19²⁵⁻²⁷, 23¹⁰, 42¹⁻²

Then Job arose, tore his robe, shaved his head, and fell on the ground and worshiped. He said, "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return there; the Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord." In all this Job did not sin or charge God with wrongdoing.

See, he will kill me; I have no hope;
but I will defend my ways to his face.

For I know that my vindicator lives
and that in the end he will stand upon the earth;
and after my skin has been destroyed,
then in my flesh I shall see God,
whom I shall see on my side,
and my eyes shall behold, and not another.
My heart faints within me!

But he knows the way that I take;
when he has tested me, I shall come out like gold.

Then Job answered the Lord:
"I know that you can do all things
and that no purpose of yours can be thwarted.

Call to Worship

In this Lenten season, we come like Job – stripped of certainty, yet clinging to faith. Job said, "Naked I came from my mother's womb, and naked shall I return. The Lord gave, and the Lord has taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord."

We bring our brokenness, our questions, and our hearts before the Lord. Blessed be His name.

Job declared, "Though He slay me, yet will I hope in Him." Even when the way is dark, we choose trust.

For we know that our Redeemer lives, and He shall stand at the last upon the earth.

Lent reminds us that the path of faith leads through suffering, through wilderness, through refining fire. Job said, "He knows the way that I take; when He has tested me, I shall come forth as gold."

We walk this road with trembling steps, yet with hope in God's restoring power.

At last Job said, "I know that You can do all things; no purpose of Yours can be thwarted." So we come in reverence, in repentance, and in longing.

Let us worship the God who redeems our suffering, refines our hearts, and restores our hope. Amen.
